

Protect your profession

In today's litigious society, professionals in all fields need protection from allegations of mistakes or errors. Insurance protection may help you avoid paying dearly in the event of such allegations.

Ask yourself what would happen if:

- your client accused you of making a mistake and sued you for causing them financial harm?
- you were the target of an investigation brought against you by a licensing or ethics board for a professional error?
- you were sued for errors made by a hired independent contractor for work done on your behalf?

Our agency, in partnership with The Hanover, can offer you insurance that protects you from legal judgments and fees caused by “wrongful acts.” This includes breaches of duty, errors, malpractice, neglect, negligence and omissions, alleged or actual.

If a client sues you for any of these reasons, you could end up facing thousands—and in some cases, millions—of dollars in damages, and huge legal bills incurred for your defense. Not many independent professionals or small firms can absorb such losses and remain in business. Can you?
